Comment:

I agree with the 1st two CRD's and they should be adopted into the ARB's guidelines.

The 3rd CRD should reduce the filter testing so that if a unit can be run without a filter, only that configuration should be tested. If it can not be run without a filter, then the least reactive form of filter should be tested. There is limited value in testing with and without filters when the worst case is almost always without filters.

Thanks
