Subject: Limit Burn Permits

Comment:

I wonder how many burn permits are issued in California everyday on average , all time highs and lows, which dates, etc.. I feel that nobody has the right to burn debris here in California as it is already crowded with 40+ million in population and with all the chimneys, heavy traffic, livestock flatulence GHG, you name it.. Enough is enough.. California is the worst air quality state in all 48 states! No wonder California has no room for coal fired powerplants ..Please keep this under consideration and maybe you will find a little courage to enact a more severe limitation to firewood and burn permits for our health's sake.. Healthcare expenses are bad enough already and to have you kind of stepping too lightly on the brake pedal about all the burn activities here in California is insane already ! Some homeowners are heavy firewood users which is not fair to neighbors who happen to live downwind ... The official way of measuring air quality is too broad brushed to be really meaningful to anyone who happen to live next to firebreathers... which routinely exceed the hazardous levels in local proximities to neighbors.. Think , think, think !!!! Those firebreathers are borderline criminals to put it mildly.. They are bullies!
