Subject: 95923 Cap-and-Trade Contractors

Comment:

1. Please clarify if 95923 (1) (a) (A) and (B) are linked with and (ie both A and B required, or (ie either A or B required), or and/or.

2. The word "information" is overly broad. Receiving, for example, advertising or shareholder notices from market participants could be interpreted as "information." I would suggest replacing "information" with "information, not available to the public and specifically indicative of compliance obligations and account balances, while providing services on cap and trade compliance ..."

3. Please clarify if "contractor" refers to the individuals specifically involved in 95923 (1) (a) (A/B) or the companies employing such individuals to provide services to entities such as registered participants.

4. Please clarify section 95923 (c) which refers to 95923 (d) which does not exist.

Dr. Steven Cliff
Chief, Climate Change Programs Evaluation Branch
California Air Resources Board

Re: Proposed Amendments to the California Cap-and-Trade Program
(July 18, 2013 Discussion Draft)

Dear Dr. Cliff,

We write to raise serious concerns regarding the Board's proposed amendments to the rules on resource shuffling in §§ 95802(a)(252) and 95852(b)(2) of the July 18 discussion draft. Please find our detailed comments in the attached Stanford Law School working paper.

In brief, we believe that the proposal, if adopted, would violate the Board's obligation under California Health & Safety Code § 38562(b)(8) to minimize leakage. As a number of studies have recently shown, a strong rule on resource shuffling is required to avoid substantial leakage in the electricity sector. Yet several of the proposed safe harbor provisions are so broad that almost any electricity sector transaction could be structured to fit within them, effectively negating the prohibition on resource shuffling.

We are also specifically concerned with the exemptions for out-of-state coal power contracts. The discussion draft proposal unambiguously exempts divestment of these contracts from the ban on resource shuffling, without a corresponding requirement that underlying facilities retire or otherwise reduce their emissions. Our calculations show that the associated leakage risks constitute between 47% and 197% of the cumulative mitigation expected under the cap-and-trade market through 2020, depending on the success of complimentary policies and the use of the allowance price containment reserve. Simply put, the potential for leakage at this scale threatens to undermine the integrity of the carbon market, and cannot be reconciled with the statutory requirement to minimize leakage.

In addition to documenting our concerns in detail, we also provide a fully developed alternative policy structure that implements a new, market-based mechanism. Our proposal would greatly reduce the potential for leakage related to resource shuffling while permitting covered entities to engage in a range of transactions that would have been impossible under the current regulations.

We urge the Board to consider the significant implications of a weak rule on resource shuffling and modify its approach to fully address the leakage concerns we identify. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,

Danny Cullenward and David Weiskopf

Subject: Provide True-Up for Legacy Contract Allowances

Comment:

Legacy contract allowances for 2013 and 2014 are proposed to be calculated based on 2012 data without a true-up. True-up with actual data is proposed in other parts of the regulation where direct allowances are provided, and the same true-up protocol should apply to legacy allowances as well. For a number of reasons, 2012 data may have little relevance to actual output in 2013 and 2014. In the interest of fairness to legacy contract parties, please provide a true-up for the allowance calculations in 95894(c) and (d).

Subject: Sunset on Legacy Allowance Provision

Comment:

Legacy contract allowances are proposed for 2013 and 2014, but not beyond even though many legacy contract extend well beyond 2014. While we understand that ARB would like to continue to encourage negotiating as a means of settling legacy contracts, the negotiating position for involved parties will not change (with possible exception of those involving universities who are covered entities). For Cardinal Cogen, our contract host is not a covered entity, so the negotiating position will be no different now than it will be in 2014. Expecting a renegotiation between now and then is not realistic, as our contract host has no reason to accept additional fees for greenhouse gases. We ask that the ARB reconsider the limitation on legacy allowances with the realization that ARB will be supporting CHP as enumerated in state policy knowing we had no way of foreseeing greenhouse gas costs at the time the contract was entered into.

Subject: Legacy Allowance for 1st Compliance Period

Comment:

Legacy contract allowances are proposed to receive 2015 vintage allowances for the 2013-14 compliance period. Asking our 3rd party CHP to float the cost of compliance before receiving state compensation is a real and unnecessary cost to our facility. These allowances should be allowed for use in settling the 2013-14 compliance requirements. Unfortunately, the draft regulation under 95856 (h)(1)(c) and (2)(c) do not yet allow this.

Subject: Reduce Naming Of Personnel in Registration

Comment:

It is overly burdensome with no clear value to specify all management personnel during registration even if some personnel have no involvement in cap and trade. This requirement is particularly excessive for large global organizations where the list of management personnel is extensive. Directors, officers, and persons controlling the voting rights of a large global entities are unlikely to have direct knowledge of cap and trade issues for a California subsidiary. New VAE language requests identification of corporate associations making extensive personnel requests from covered entities unnecessary.

Comment:

In the ARB July 18 workshop presentation, ARB proposed to move up the deadline for annual verification by two weeks. This would provide a hardship for all 600 covered entities in the state. In the past few years our facility has completed verification right before the deadline, as our verifier works with all their covered entities to meet the September 1 deadline. Shortening the verification period by two weeks is not a feasible solution for us.

Subject: Limit Corporate Associations

Comment:

The draft requirements for corporate associations, direct associations, and indirect associations is overly burdensome to large, global entities and provides no real value to ARB. Large, global entities can have thousands of business units and subsidiaries across the globe, many of which will have no business in California or with the state's cap and trade system. Providing this information is difficult to amass for such organizations and provides no beneficial, actionable data to ARB. Direct associations ought to be limited to other covered entities in California. Indirect associations ought to be limited to entities with operations in California or can participate in financial investment transactions in California's cap and trade system. New VAE language requests identification of corporate associations making extensive listing of corporate, direct or indirect associations from covered entities unnecessary.

Subject: Use of Current Year Allowance for Prior Year Compliance

Comment:

Graphic Packaging International supports the ARBs proposed change under 95856 (h)(1)(c) and (2)(c) to allow current year vintage allowances up to the true-up amount for prior year compliance for facilities with leakage risk as identified in Table 9-1 of section 95891(b). We ask that ARB consider enhancing this provision by removing the true-up amount limitation. Allowing facilities to use current year vintage for prior year compliance can provide a strong cost containment benefit to EITE facilities. Facilities could now delay purchases of allowances if they thought future prices of allowances would be cheaper. As a facility with leakage risk, we see our proposed change as a significant means for cost - containment of cap and trade costs, a very important consideration for all EITE facilities.
