Subject: April 27 - Proposed In-Use Locomotive Regulation

Comment:

As someone who lives within 50 yards of a Union Pacific track on which trains frequently idle for multiple hours (often overnight and into the next day), I urge you to pass the new idling rule ("All locomotives with automatic shutoff devices would not be permitted to idle longer than 30 minutes, unless for an exempt reason.") post-haste. We deal with extreme air AND noise pollution for 12+ hours a week on average, including noxious fumes, diesel particulates coating the exterior of our house, sleep deprivation due to our home vibrating as well as the noise (sometimes a gentle thrum, but often periods as load as a jet engine). The sad part is that there are sections of track nearby with NO homes immediately adjacent to the tracks, so it's unclear why the trains need to idle right in the middle of a residential area.

You guys think you are doing good for the environment. You are going to cripple your state. I have 145 trucks and trailers that bring food to CA and when this new regulations take place we will stop coming to CA. I am sure a lot of other truckers will as well.

Your power grid will not be able to sustain the extra draw of thousands of Reefer units running while loading or unloading at a shipper or receiver. Then the cost will go up about 25% for all your goods to compensate the truckers that will still come to your state.

Subject: Clean Air Now!

Comment:

Good morning, my name is Pa Houa Lee, and I am an Ambassador of California EnviroVoters. I am writing to address the concern of our air quality. I think it has been long enough. For 40 years, bad air quality has been an issue in California. Our generation and future children are learning that the bad quality of air we breathe is normal. It should not! We all should have access to clean air. I live right next to the highway of 180, and every month someone in my family experiences some type of sickness, especially my mom. My mom is currently 76, and she is becoming more susceptible to getting sick. The people in charge of cleaning our air are failing to protect the health of the public. We need real solutions that should prioritize our people who are in need.
