Subject: Send Dividends to Disadvantaged Communities (and everyone else too)

Comment:

Please see the attached comments advocating for dividends to disadvantaged communities (and everyone else too). The current proposal is too complex for the public to understand what is going on. You want your beneficiaries to know they are beneficiaries. The California Climate Credit is a step in the right direction, but no one reads the back page of their utility bill. Just send them the money! Imagine the headlines. Imagine the shock waves it would send to Washington DC! I'm sure you could get Silicon Valley to support it (basic income is hot now). California can lead the way!

Subject: Public Comments on draft Funding Guidelines Supplement for FY 2016-17 Funds
Comment:

To The California Air Resources Board:
The following are REV's comments to CARB's draft Funding Guidelines Supplement for FY 2016-17 Funds (Supplement) document.

To the extent that the guidelines advance both increasing rigor and flexibility for agencies to determine what are acceptable GHG reduction methods for GGRF programs, thank you.

We do however want to raise a concern that may not be recognized and accounted for in the existing guidelines and should be. It appears that the guidance focuses only on specific subject matter GHG reducing "projects" and does not address measurement requirements for broader organizational GHG reducing efforts should an agency wish to set up a program to encourage organization-wide GHG reducing outcomes.

For example, since organization-wide peer cohort trainings were recognized as a promising energy efficiency tactic in the California Energy Commission's 10 year Existing Buildings Energy Efficiency Action Plan, should the Transformative Climate Community GGRF program wish to fund organizational peer cohort trainings to help organizations reduce GHGs organization-wide, are the existing guidelines sufficient to help them consider and deal with that scenario? To be sure, an organization-wide GHG reduction effort will be composed of specific projects, but measuring GHG reductions from each of those projects may require different and consolidated measuring guidelines.

Further and more broadly, we believe that unless CARB provides guidance for agencies to utilize peer cohort trainings in their GGRF programs, then utilizing this promising tactic will be less likely to occur.

Thank you in advance for addressing these comments and providing guidance to agencies about how they can set up and administer GGRF programs that use peer cohort trainings to achieve organization-wide GHG reductions. If we can help provide any information in this area to improve the guidelines, please let us know.
