RE: Volkswagen Settlement Fund – Please Require 50% Funding of 3rd Party Proposals

Dear Mr. Williams and the California Air Resources Board,

The Community Environmental Council (CEC) sits on the Steering Committee of Plug-in Central Coast, a group funded by the California Energy Commission to prepare Ventura, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo Counties for electric vehicles. We've produced a ZEV Readiness Plans, helped install over 300 charging stations, and helped prepare 100's of governments, businesses, condo associations, and others for EVs. We produce the Santa Barbara Green Car Show, a large static show and Ride and Drive event with automaker support that attracts 35,000 attendees annually, and host the regional Drive Electric week and other community events. We are very in tune with all niches of the EV ecosystem, from the drivers to charging station companies to automakers.

CEC is very concerned that VW's $800 million settlement will be allowed to be spent entirely by VW in a way that centralizes the investment, overwhelms smaller competitors, and doesn't allow for a diversity of innovative approaches. We request that at least 50% of the settlement funds go to 3rd party activities that will deliver statewide, regional, and local solutions for EV infrastructure development, marketing, and outreach. VW has stated they received almost 200 proposals from California, and there is surely a wide variety of excellent projects proposed for the solicitation.

As we saw with the EV Project and NRG settlement, large centralized programs can experience delays and leave stranded assets. $800 million is a very large sum to invest. We support efforts to diversify expenditure of VW's funds and reduce the risk of a centralized approach by funding 3rd party statewide, regional, and local projects. Diversifying VW's settlement investments will spur the innovation and market competition needed to reach 1.5 million EVs on California's roads by 2025.

Sincerely,

Michael Chiacos
Director of Energy and Climate Programs

Subject: ZEV program

Comment:

It is well known that transportation is the single largest source of global warming pollution in California and the nation, surpassing emissions from power plants. Vehicle electrification is critical to achieving California's climate goals.

Cars and trucks that are fueled by an increasingly renewable electricity grid pollute less and stave off the worst effects of climate change. EVs are cheaper and easier to maintain than their gas-powered counterparts and save money on fuel while also avoiding fluctuations in gas prices.

The California Air Resources Board will be meeting on March 24th to review the state's Zero Emission Vehicle (ZEV) program. It should keep, if not enhance, strong incentives for consumers to make more electric vehicle (EV) choices. This is a wise investment in our future. PLEASE retain this program!

Comment:

ArtCenter College of Design (artcenter.edu) appreciates the efforts to keep the public informed about the draft California ZEV Investment Plan. Our main comment on the current draft plan is that the "Public Education" section (2.2.3) contains no mention of actual education. It focuses on communications plans but neither suggests the involvement of educators or students nor mentions an educational principle behind what is to be communicated. As we have previously mentioned, California's higher education sector is rich with expertise in advertising/visual communication and sustainable automotive technology/design. We urge VW to invite talented faculty and students to be part of the solution and would be honored to participate.

Hello,

I am on the Environmental Management Project leader at Beckman Coulter World Headquarters in Brea, California. I've approached SCAQMD as well as Southern California Edison for funding for six ZEV charging stations here at the corporate headquarters in Brea. These have not panned out. Although I own a hydrogen fuel cell Toyota Mirai, I promised the electric vehicle driving engineers here at Beckman that I would put in a word for them when this money became available. Any chance we could get part of the VW settlement for some charging stations?

Thanks,

Mark Mobley

The VW submission should support infrastructure for both battery AND FUEL CELL CARS, to help meet the ZEV requirements.

Subject: Volkswagen's ZEV Investment Plan: Reject Redlining of Disadvantaged Communities

Comment:

I applaud the San Jose Mercury News for its March 29, 2017 editorial, "California must put brakes on VW's EV plan".

<http://www.mercurynews.com/2017/03/29/editorial-california-must-put-brakes-on-vws-ev-plan/>

The California Air Resources Board (ARB) is now reviewing a proposal by Volkswagen (VW) to use the first round of the hefty $800 million settlement, resulting from VW's gaming of diesel emission tests, to build Electric Vehicle (EV) charging stations around the state. This part of the settlement requires VW to spend 35 percent on charging stations in low-income areas, not just cater to upmarket consumers.

However, it appears that VW's proposal is guilty of redlining disadvantaged communities, by placing EV stations near freeway offramps, rather than embedding them in the community - at apartment buildings, grocery stores, movie theaters, shopping centers, public spaces, and parking structures - where people can use them while going about their day.

VW's deliberate, multi-year campaign to defeat auto emission standards violated the public trust, to the detriment of our air quality and public health. It is not up to corporate managers to decide how to apply funds intended to remedy VW's misconduct.

Please make sure spending under VW's ZEV Investment Plan, as overseen by the ARB, incorporates substantial investments in underserved communities, and is not driven by VW's sales and profit goals - yet again. Make sure the spirit - not just the letter - of the settlement is enforced.

RE: Los Angeles Volkswagen Green Funding

Dear Mr. Williams:

On behalf of the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, I would like to express our support for Los Angeles to receive one of Volkswagen's two Green City designations in this first funding round.

The lawsuit that brought forth the settlement with Volkswagen stemmed from air pollution, and no place in the nation has been hit harder from diesel pollution than Los Angeles. When you combine the disproportionate impact felt within our communities from air pollution with other CalEnviroScreen factors, LA County represents over half of the state's disadvantaged communities.

Not only does Los Angeles have significant air quality needs, but the City also represents a market opportunity for the future of transportation electrification and the next iteration of urban mobility. The investments made by Volkswagen with the first round of funding, potentially accumulating to over $44 million as they do in currently-slated Sacramento, can make a tremendous difference to propelling the region in this direction.

We recognize CARB's concern about having this investment be "transformative" by choosing a location small enough for effective impact, and it is for this reason that LA submitted a proposal that would concentrate investment within specific LA communities that need it most: Downtown, South LA, Boyle Heights, Wilmington, Pacoima, and LAX. By focusing on specific areas within a large city, the investment can achieve such goals as: leveraging a large market with existing investment to achieve a smaller subarea impact in parts of the city that could be transformative for ZEV deployment and infrastructure.

While we appreciate the opportunity to be one of the five metro areas selected for infrastructure investment in the VW plan, we believe an investment in LA should be more significant than infrastructure alone and seek to reduce, in the long term, the fuel-related problems and inefficiencies that lead to calls for improved infrastructure. Selecting Los Angeles as one of the first Green Cities will enable VW to achieve maximum impact by leveraging hundreds of millions in public and private funding (more than any other single location in the state) and mitigating emissions in communities that need it the most through accelerated ZEV deployment and infrastructure buildout.

We urge you to include Los Angeles as one of the two Green Cities as part of the ZEV investment. Please feel free to contact Sarah Rascon at SRascon@lachamber.com if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Gary Toebben
President & CEO

Dear California Air Resources Board Members and Staff,

We appreciate the opportunity to provide comments on the Volkswagen's (VW) California ZEV Investment Plan: Cycle 1.

Green Commuter strongly supports the proposed investment for a Green City Initiative in Sacramento and respectfully requests ARB to consider Los Angeles as a second Green City site.

Green Commuter, a minority-woman-owned Benefit Corporation headquartered in California, has developed an innovative system that utilizes a fleet of 100% zero-emission vehicles (ZEV) to provide a combined service of vanpool, car sharing and/or fleet replacement to maximize efficiency, decrease the cost of commuting, and increase ZEV access for all consumers in California. The Green Commuter model operates vanpool vehicles as public car share and/or fleet replacement vehicles during non-commute hours. This integrated approach reduces costs and increases benefits-reducing emissions, alleviating traffic and parking issues.

Green Commuter strongly supports the inclusion of investment in zero-emission car-sharing services as a part of the Green City Initiative to increase ZEV access and awareness. Green Commuter requests including zero-emission vanpool services, in addition to car-sharing and delivery services, to increase zero-emission mobility options along with ZEV awareness and education.

All-electric vanpooling bridges the access gap to ZEV between typical EV owners (average annual income of more than $100,000) and low to mid income earners by offering safe, attractive EVs for commuting purposes at a lower cost. Increasing awareness and access for more Californians to ride in an EV will help California reach the State's ZEV deployment and air quality goals, including the Governor's ZEV Action Plan, SB 350, SB 1275, and SB 535.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide comments on the VW Consent Decree Appendix C. We look forward to continuing to work together to carry out the goals and initiatives of increasing public exposure and access to zero-emission vehicles for consumers in California.

Subject: VW 30-Month Electric Vehicle Infrastructure Investment Plan for California.

Comment:

California has always lead the nation in clean air technologies and zero emission vehicles. Our approach has been intelligent and fair and technology neutral. This has encouraged new startups, innovation, investments and technologies. The VW electric vehicle infrastructure investment plan must support all electric vehicles regardless of the source of power - grid, batteries or fuel cells powered by hydrogen. The state cannot afford to go blind or get biased resulting in distorting the evolution of the best technologies or combination of technologies to support the growth and health of our great state and nation.

Subject: Lack of FCEV support in this plan

Comment:

The settlement criterion stipulated a solution that did not favor any manufacturer and should accommodate all Zero Emissions Technologies. This proposal favors VW strategic planning for vehicles which includes a complete omission of support for FCEV.

FCEV is one of the emerging solutions which is spanning from consumer vehicles to industrial equipment including Amazon's recent investment and commitment to converting many of their FC Forklifts to FC based solutions due to a higher level of efficiency and in their mind a better total Carbon Footprint equation.

One can understand why VW might want to attempt to tilt their penalty to their favor, the goal of the penalty and the resulting plan of action was unilateral support for ZEV initiatives and support.

It would seem that carving out 10-15% of this award to FC based initiatives is a more than fair approach to an unbiased allocation of these funds.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Subject: No funding for hydrogen stations?

Comment:

Over the last year I have driven 25,000 zero emission miles in my Toyota Mirai, while TDI owners continued to pollute the air. I am asthmatic and am committed to driving a vehicle that doesn't kill other asthmatics.

I am extremely disappointed to see no funding from the settlement with VW who has been polluting the air for years when I have been trying to keep it clean. I live in Lake Elsinore and my nearest station is 30 miles away in San Juan Capistrano. I really need a station near me so I can continue to drive without polluting the air and you can't allocate $2.5M from the $800 million for the residents of southwest Riverside county?

This is extremely disappointing.

Subject: Sorry to see Hydrogen Fueling Stations not Included

Comment:

I was sorry to see that the Volkswagen Settlement plan appears to be completely oriented toward Battery-powered electric vehicles and completely ignores the only other type of Zero Emission Vehicles currently on the road: Hydrogen Fuel Cell Vehicles. Using some of that settlement money to continue building out the Hydrogen Fueling infrastructure should be included. I am, admittedly, suggesting this somewhat selfishly since I am the proud new owner (technically, lessor) of a 2017 Toyota Mirai, which I love. Please consider using some of these funds to build more Hydrogen Fueling capability. Thank you,

James White

Subject: FCEV funding as part of the VW settlement

Comment:

In California, and especially in the two largest metro areas, we have a sizable and growing user base of Hydrogen Fuel Cell Vehicles. I have leased a FCEV and am very pleased with the operations and zero emission characteristics along with fast fueling that rivals my gasoline cars for speed.

In recent years, I've enjoyed driving several battery electric vehicles and think that the support in California makes them exceptionally great cars for a number of drivers. At the same time, I was saddened to see that there was minimal/no funding proposed in this settlement towards the hydrogen fueling stations, car production or any similar/related needs.

Certainly VW group is going to have a number of options here but I would encourage the administrators to show the results of our state experiments with H2 Fuel Cells and find a way to introduce options for them to manufacture cars like this or take part in the infrastructure development.

Comment:

PDC Machines appreciate the opportunity to provide comments to the California Air Resources Board (ARB) regarding Volkswagen Group of America's California Zero Emission Vehicle (ZEV) Investment Plan: Cycle 1 ("Plan").

We urge ARB to postpone approval of the submitted plan, and to work with Volkswagen to amend the Plan to include HFS investment and a clear role for FCV in ZEV awareness and access programs. This will help grow consumer interest in all ZEV technologies and help improve station access and customer refueling experience.

The Volkswagen Investment Plan issued on March 8, 2017 allocated a total funding of $200,000,000 with none of this amount going toward hydrogen and fuel cell infrastructure and vehicle deployment. Accordingly, PDC Machines supports the comments issued by the Hydrogen Business Council, NEL Hydrogen, and the Fuel Cell Hydrogen Energy Association on April 7th 2017.

PDC urges ARB to postpone approval of the submitted plan, and to work with Volkswagen to amend the Plan to include HFS investment and a clear role for FCV in ZEV awareness and access programs. Taking these common-sense actions will help grow consumer interest in all ZEV technologies and help improve station access and customer refueling experience

PDC Machines is a member of The Fuel Cell and Hydrogen Energy Association. We are dedicated to the commercialization of fuel cells and hydrogen energy technologies as a manufacturer of hydrogen compressors and systems packager.

Dear sirs;

Fuel cell electric vehicles (FCVs) resolve the same issues as all electric vehicles, but instead of just moving pollution back to the power plant, can eliminate it completely. Please include appropriation for development and deployment of FCVs in the settlement plans.

CleanStart support VW's ZEV investment of Sacramento as a Green City.

Since 2005, CleanStart has been involved in developing sustainable companies in the Sacramento region and knows the potential this investment will unlock in creating a model green city for the world.

Sacramento's regional stakeholders have launched Sacramento into a leading sustainable city in the world without the fanfare. Being a midsize city with this success is important in showing being a sustainable city is possible without being a global metropolis. With VW ZEV investment, Sacramento will be able to demonstrate the possibilities of sustainable ZEV development to cities around the country.

Thomas Hall

We want to thank you for the California ZEV Investment Plan and for giving us an opportunity to comment.

Our Drucker School has submitted a proposal to Volkswagen that is directly aligned with what you're considering with the ZEV Investment Plan.

However, we are concerned that something may be overlooked as your initiative is being developed. What we are concerned about can be summed up in just one word: Customer.

We would recommended that any ZEV infrastructure investments be complemented with a customer analytics-based approach that will ensure that infrastructure will actually be used.

Please see attached document for our full comment.

Subject: Support for Transit Applications - Questions about Process

Comment:

As Southern California's Commuter Rail system operating across five counties and serving those living in the worst air quality conditions and congestion in California, the Southern California Regional Rail Authority/Metrolink strongly recommends that ZEV projects funded by both the ZEV Investment Plans and the upcoming NOx Mitigation Trust projects include transit applications. After years of emissions beyond what was expected, the inclusion of transit in the mix is critical to gain lost ground, and such investments are obviously required to make "Green Cities" truly green, and to support non-auto modes and to clean up emissions in DAC communities that are typically on rail lines (e.g., 84% of Metrolink's customers access stations within DAC zip codes.) Transit will give greater "bang for the buck" than single occupancy vehicles. In this recommendation for transit, as well as the strong reconsideration of the first Green City (which we believe should be in Southern California with its high CES 3.0 scores and majority DAC communities) we affirm the statements of others in Southern California and around the state who testified on March 24, 2017.

We also have some questions about project eligibility, and request more clarity on how the process to advance projects works, both for the ZEV Investment Plan and the NOx Trust funds. We notice you postponed an all day workshop that had been scheduled for April 6, and we hope you will answer these questions in the rescheduled workshop.

It does appear that the language from ARB allows off-road investments, but transit is not specifically called out. We believe this is a serious oversight. Our project eligibility questions:

• Would replacement and/or expansion of rail car movers with electric RCMs in yards be fundable under Appendix C or D?

• Would electric multiple units (EMUs) be an eligible project? These would allow schedule flexibility with zero emissions and at lower cost, along busy corridors, luring more people out of cars onto transit.

• Would a locomotive test bed using electric-diesel hybrids or fuel cells be eligible under Appendix C or D?

• When will we have the opportunity for public input on potential projects for the NOx Mitigation Trust? How would we propose a project?

Subject: Equal Treatment for Hydrogen Station and Electric Charging Infrastructure Funding
Comment:

Dear Mr. Williams:

I respectfully request that the California Air Resources Board treat hydrogen station and electric charging infrastructure funding equally. The currently submitted plan focuses exclusively on battery-electric charging infrastructure, ignoring the legitimate and immediate needs of hydrogen fuel cell electric vehicles. This action conflicts with precedent wherein California has historically taken a neutral stance with respect to ZEV technologies and infrastructure.

GTA, Inc. is a bronze member of the California Hydrogen Business Council and is working on using its patented technology to support the development of 100 hydrogen fueling stations in California. Your help and support are urgently needed.

Sincerely yours,

Elias Greenbaum

Subject: Please include SLAs as part of the VW settlement

Comment:

Hi,

I am thrilled that CARB has negotiated the $2B EV infrastructure investment as part of the dieselgate settlement

I would urge/beg you to include stringent service level agreements, targets and fines as part of the agreement. Even if enforcing and reporting those will mean a little less infrastructure.

Currently, all non-Tesla fast chargers have a bad reputation in terms of availability especially the EVgo infrastructure that was part of the last settlement with Entergy. All of them regularly have some kind of problem (doesn't work, only partially works, behind a closed gate, only available for customers, located in an area that makes it likely to get ICE'd). So the perception is, you can't really count on them. Even if in reality they work most of the time, a bad experience once being stuck somewhere because of it, has a devastating effect on the confidence of folks using them

As an example, even CP's network, who have a commercial incentive to get this right, has issues with that, see article below

http://www.greencarreports.com/news/1109627_fast-charging-a-2017-chevrolet-bolt-ev-electric-car#image=10059711

The service Level Agreements should be around:

- uptime of the equipment
- tracking and fixing of trouble tickets

I am sure you can come up with more

May thanks!

Subject: EVSE Industry Letter Supporting ZEV Investment Commitment

Comment:

Mark,

On behalf of the undersigned companies, please see the attached letter supporting implementation of the California ZEV Investment Commitment pursuant to Appendix C of the VW settlement decree. The companies believe that these investments represent a unique opportunity to accelerate the EV market in California, which will create jobs and economic opportunity, help California achieve its climate mitigation goals, and protect the health of disadvantaged communities.

As you will see in the letter, the companies are concerned that the full perspective of the EV charging industry has not been well communicated to policy makers so far on this issue. This letter is intended to signal clear support for this effort and the importance of acting swiftly.

Finally, we appreciate that this is being submitted prior to the formal public comment period on the initial investment plan. The companies may submit further comments under that process.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Brendan
