I urge you to do all you can rally support to adopt the Advanced Clean Fleet (ACF) rule at your meeting this Thursday or Friday. Since heavy duty trucks are the single largest source of smog-forming emissions in our state as well as a major climate destabilizer, the need for bold action to reduce pollution from trucks couldn't be clearer or more urgent. The ACF rule will help California achieve our ambitious climate and clean air goals by requiring commercial trucking fleets to gradually transition to zero-emission vehicles (ZEVs) over time.

Insist that CARB act without delay ensure a cleaner, healthier, and more sustainable transportation system—particularly for our most vulnerable communities—and have the courage to just say no industry lobbyists urging more delay or carve outs for hydrogen-fueled vehicles (98% of hydrogen is produced with fossil fuels). We're counting on you to champion climate justice and a just transition to clean, electrified transportation.
