Here is my comment:
Please support Alternative 1 – to convert the entire system of supermarket and other large refrigerators to natural refrigerants with a COP of 1 or less. According to ASHRAE, the average supermarket's refrigerators leak 27% annually, equivalent to 250,000 COP per supermarket. Considering the size of California, with approx. 24,000 commercial refrigeration systems, we have a very significant opportunity to greatly reduce the amount of GHG emissions.

Thank you,
S. Yan
