

[Fwd: Auto VOC standards Unreasonable]

Subject: [Fwd: Auto VOC standards Unreasonable]
From: David Mallory <dmallory@arb.ca.gov>
Date: Wed, 04 Oct 2006 11:23:16 -0700
To: Clerk of the Board <cotb@arb.ca.gov>

----- Original Message -----

Subject: Auto VOC standards Unreasonable
Date: Wed, 04 Oct 2006 10:05:54 -0700
From: Dave Woolsey <DaveW@vacavalley.com>
To: dmallory@arb.ca.gov

Not only am I a car enthusiast but I am in the automotive industry and have been for 15 years. Since I am in the industry I do have some benefits that the vast majority of the residents of California don't have and that is a discount on parts and labor. The extra time and costs it takes for a repair shop to properly do their jobs is going to cost all the automobile owners more money. Not to mention any trucking outfit that is going to have to raise costs to cover the extra down time it is going to take to properly repair their vehicles as well. Then there are safety issues with not using the correct cleaners and chemicals specifically designed to correctly clean and or lubricate sensitive parts on vehicles. So lets say that somebody doesn't get your brake rotors clean during a brake job on YOUR vehicle then you have a brake failure with your family in the car with you and the car with the family of six right next to you. Stop making the automobile industry the scapegoat for the large industrial companies that do 70% of the polluting but contribute to political campaigns so they don't have to follow the rules.