Subject: ordiesel -- ARB In-Use Off-road Diesel Rule - Revised Regulatory Language

At the July 26, 2007, Air Resources Board (Board) meeting, the Board adopted the proposed in-use off-road diesel vehicle regulation, along with staff's proposed minor modifications to it. The Board also directed staff to make several additional changes to the regulatory language.

Staff have developed draft regulatory language implementing the Board's direction. To expedite the comment process, staff is releasing this draft regulatory language for informal public comment. The document below provides the draft regulatory language:

Staff would like to solicit feedback from interested stakeholders on these proposed changes. Please submit any comments by Friday, September 14 to Kim Heroy-Rogalski by email at kheroyro@arb.ca.gov.

After receiving and addressing any informal comments from stakeholders, staff will formally release the proposed changes to the regulatory language for a supplemental comment period of at least 15 days. Staff anticipates releasing the so-called "15-day package" by the end of September.

Staff has also provided an updated overview fact sheet describing the adopted in-use off-road diesel vehicle rule. Please see the link below:
