

DEAR CARB CHAIR NICHOLS,

I believe global warming has a dangerous effect on our environment. As the world becomes warmer due to green house gas emissions, which is actually due to our burning of fossil fuels, we will all suffer from the ill effects of climate change. In California, drought will become very bad, and will result in the state's ability to grow food to be severely impacted. Wild life will suffer as drought strikes forests dry up and become much more fire prone.

Therefore we must strongly ~~support~~ implement AB 32. We must quickly ~~put~~ ~~back~~ put back on green house gas emissions.

Industries must not receive free pollution permits but instead should pay for their green house gas emissions.

In fact, instead of allowing polluters to buy offsets, strong regulation of green house gases should be mandatory.

This means that electricity production must emit zero green house gases, and that all new developments meet high standards for energy efficiency, and help reduce auto travel.

Sincerely yours,
John Castle
