Re: CARB Meeting on March 27, 2008, Regarding Changes to Zero Emission Vehicle Program

Dear Chairwoman Nichols,

Ze'ev Drori of Tesla Motors said in his letter most of what I wanted to say. However, I would add that I, along with almost everyone I know, would like America to get off its oil addiction. We have the opportunity to do that as it is clear the battery technology is there to allow cars to be built that travel 150 miles or less round trip. As you probably know, most Americans commute daily for less than 100 miles. If anything, I think the mandates should be increased. California has the opportunity to show America the way. If you will just lead us, most of the rest of America will follow. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to give me a call. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Jay Foster
