

Do you have a diesel truck*
with a 1995 or older engine?

Upcoming compliance
deadlines may affect you.

You must replace older trucks soon unless you are using regulatory flexibility options.

*Diesel trucks with a GVWR more than 14,000 pounds that are owned by private or federal government fleets are subject to the Truck & Bus Regulation.

Upcoming Truck & Bus Regulation Compliance Deadlines:

Lighter Trucks and Buses (14,001 lbs – 26,000 lbs GVWR)

Trucks with 1995 and older model year engines may have compliance requirements by January 1, 2015*.

Heavier Trucks and Buses (26,001 lbs GVWR and greater)

Trucks with 1993 and older model year engines may have compliance requirements by January 1, 2015*.

* Replacements with a 2010 model year or newer engine meet the final requirements, but owners can also replace with used trucks that have a future compliance date on the schedule. Visit arb.ca.gov/truckstop to view the complete schedules.

There are additional flexibility options for vehicles such as those operated in less polluted counties in California, low use vehicles, and low mileage work trucks.

NOTE: These compliance dates are for engine replacement. Installing a filter on your truck now may not bring it into compliance. Additionally, if you are currently using any of the compliance flexibilities, these compliance dates may not apply to you.
